In other Education Committee News, AATA's Education Committee has officially launched its Undergraduate Education Sub-Committee and we welcome your involvement! Previously a task force, this full-fledged sub-committee is tasked with developing, updating, and ensuring the ethical soundness of standards for undergraduate art therapy education. Undergraduate art therapy education plays an important role in building the future of our profession as we prepare strong candidates for graduate study in the field. If you are an undergraduate educator, and are interested in contributing your time and expertise to the work of this sub-committee, please contact chairperson Jennifer Schwartz Mrazek, ATR-BC at Jennifer.schwartz@ursuline.edu to get involved.
