

Did You Know?

The information contained in each laboratory's ASHI member account should contain the most up-to-date information. Your laboratory's account profile affects more than just the delivery of your PT order to the correct address; the email address listed on the main laboratory account receives important updates concerning the shipment and important deadlines. Login to ASHI today with the username and password for your laboratory's account to make sure your laboratory's information is correct.
