

ASPE Members: What is Your Expertise?

ASPE consistently receives inquiries seeking connections with ASPE members/SP Educators who would be able to assist in various aspects of the SP Methodology. As this identified need has grown, both nationally and internationally, we would like to identify a group of ASPE members who are willing to share their experience and expertise. The membership committee has been tasked to oversee the member profiles on the ASPE website and develop an Infrastructure to link the pre-identified ASPE member to those that need them.

We want to identify qualified speakers and/or SP Educators who would be interested in anything from answering questions, to helping develop an SP Program, to giving a presentation on the SP Methodology.

We would also want to “spread the word” about this resource to internal audiences (SP community), external groups, other professions outside the health service audiences and Simulation conferences.

If you are interested in being a part of this database, please go to the ASPE website and update the section of your profile and specifically the Other Areas of Expertise. While some people hesitate to think of themselves as “experts” your vast experiences are very important for us to have in the database.

To access your profile:

Visit www.aspeducators.org

Click "Login" in the upper right corner using your unique credentials

Click "My Profile" under your logged in name in the upper right corner – and update all blank or dated areas.

If you have any questions, please email us at admin@aspeducators.org or call ASPE Headquarters, 407-774-7880.

Finally, if you have not already done so, mark your calendar and save the date for the 2015 ASPE Annual Conference, June 13 – 17, in Denver, Colorado, USA. The Call for Abstracts is open. Click here for more information: <http://www.aspeducators.org/node/2961>
